

Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 30 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Storm Evert moves eastward, with strong winds steadily easing.

Today:

Heavy rain showers, some thundery, as Storm Evert moves eastward throughout the morning. A continued risk of coastal gales, but winds will gradually ease through the day. Sunny spells and showers later but remaining blustery. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:

Daytime showers ease leading to a clearer evening for most. Winds continue to ease from the west into the evening. More showers returning to western areas overnight. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Saturday:

Some early sunshine but showers becoming quite widespread and heavy in places by the afternoon. Lighter winds compared to the previous day. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:

Sunny spells and showers on Sunday, these easing into the evening. Changeable conditions continue into next week with further showers and potential for widespread rain later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.